

Michael Landau

Michael Landau developed the College of Law's Intellectual Property Curriculum and is the Faculty Advisor to the Intellectual Property Society. Professor Landau teaches Copyrights, Trademarks & Unfair Competition, Patents, Computers & the Law (survey), Computer Law Seminar, Art & Entertainment Law, Advanced Intellectual Property Seminar, and International Intellectual Property. In 2015, he was awarded the "IP Legends" prize by GA Tech, GA State University, and the State Bar of Georgia.

Professor Landau's J.D. is from the University of Pennsylvania Law School, where he won the Nathan Burkan Memorial Copyright Award. In 2005-2006, he was a Fulbright Scholar at the IPR Institute at the University of Helsinki and a Fulbright Professor at the Hanken School of Business and Economics. Prior to entering academia, Professor Landau practiced law with the New York firms of Cravath, Swaine & Moore and Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom, representing entertainment, technology, and media clients. He teaches Copyrights, Trademarks, Patents, Art & Entertainment Law, Computer Law, and an Advanced Intellectual Property Seminar.

He has published over fifty academic articles and book chapters on Copyrights, Trademarks, Freedom of Speech, and the Right of Publicity, and is the current author of Lindey on Entertainment, Publishing & the Arts : Agreements and the Law, an eleven-volume treatise on all aspects of entertainment law.

Professor Landau also lectures extensively. He has presented papers or has been an invited guest lecturer at numerous law schools in the United States and Europe including Georgetown, NYU, George Washington, Vanderbilt, Emory, Tulane, Ohio State, Michigan State, the London School of Economics, the University of London, the University of Edinburgh, the University of Durham, and the University of Amsterdam Institute for Information Law. He regularly lectures for the State Bar of Georgia and Georgia Lawyers for the Arts.